FILM: The QuebeCanada Complex is a humorous attempt to settle once and for all the 'national identity crisis.'

Room: Gagnon

Co-directed by Patricial Vergeylen Tassinari (Ciao! Federico) and Peter Wintonick (Manufacturing Consent: Noam Chomsky and the Media) from a script by Tassinari, the QuebeCanada Complex is a strange disorder, in which two self-centered patients/societies each refuse to acknowledge the distinct identity of 'the other.' Les Deux nations are figuratively-and literally put 'on the couch.' The 'question' is referred to a full spectrum of real-life psychiatrists and psychotherapists. Beyond the rhetoric of the partisan politics which has dragged down the disunity debate until now, and which completely alienates most ordinary people, the therapists analyze the 'Complex.' In parallel to their refreshing analysis, an allegorical couple on the verge of separation representing Quebec and Canada, goes through phases of a simulated therapy. Also featured are individuals who manage to overcome the destructive intolerance which is a major symptom of the 'Complex.' In the end, Eros wins the day over politics-as-usual and deja vu news.

Both of the film makers, Ms. Vergeylen Tassinari and Mr. Wintonick, will be available to answer questions.
