

FACULTY MEMBER IN SOCIAL PSYCHOLOGY
Psychology Department
ARTS AND SCIENCE
New York University

The Department of Psychology in Arts and Science at New York University invites applications for an open-rank, tenured or tenure-track position in Social Psychology. The appointment is expected to begin September 1, 2015, pending budgetary and administrative approval.

We seek applicants with outstanding records of programmatic research in social psychology with a focus on the relationship between the individual and society. Teaching duties will include undergraduate and graduate courses as well as Ph.D. research supervision. It is required that candidates for the junior level position will have completed all requirements for the Ph.D. by the start date of the appointment.

To apply, see the “Job Openings” link on the NYU Department of Psychology web site, <http://www.psych.nyu.edu/>. Review of applications will begin on October 15, 2014, and continue until the position is filled. The application should include a CV, statements of research and teaching interests, representative publications, and at least three references.

New York University is an Affirmative Action, Equal Opportunity Employer.