

The Bobst Center for Peace and Justice at Princeton University and the Social Science Experimental Laboratory (SSEL) at New York University Abu Dhabi are pleased to invite you to submit a paper/research design to the Winter Experimental Social Sciences Institute (WESSI) Workshops at New York University Florence Italy, to be held September 15-16, 2016 and New York University Abu Dhabi to be held January 17-19. These workshops are organized by Rebecca Morton (NYU NYC and AD) and Amaney Jamal (Princeton University).

Each WESSI Workshop aims to give social science PhD students, postdoctoral fellows, and junior Assistant Professors in experimental social science the opportunity to present their research designs and work in progress and receive personal feedback from noted scholars in the field. Each will also enable students to attend presentations by these mentors, and learn from their research experience. Each mentor will present their own research and each student will receive feedback from two mentors. Junior scholars who are planning or in the process of doing research in the Middle East region, broadly defined, or who were participants at previous WESSI workshops are especially encouraged to apply, but we are open to scholars working in other regions and new to WESSI as well.

The application deadline for the WESSI (Winter Experimental Social Science Institute) Workshops in Florence and Abu Dhabi is May 1, 2017.

For information on these workshops, mentors who will be at the workshops, and how to apply, please see:
