

MA program 'Studies in European Societies', supported by German Academic Exchange Service (DAAD)

Our English-language program based at the Faculty of Sociology of St Petersburg State University and organized in cooperation with Bielefeld University has had more than 110 graduates since its establishment in 2004.

I'm happy to inform you that we started our recruitment process, and the European students who want to study in Russia, know Russian language and culture from inside, are very welcome. Our MA degree is provided with an international certificate from Bielefeld University.

The courses are taught by highly qualified international teachers from St. Petersburg State University, Bielefeld University, University of Magdeburg and other European higher schools. Our students perform comparative research across Europe and get involved in the international professional academic networks.

More information about MA SES can be found on our website: mases.spbu.ru/en