

New and Featured Titles from Cambridge Scholars – February 2018

At Cambridge Scholars we are very proud of the international spectrum of our authors, editors and contributors, many of whom will be celebrating the Chinese New Year this month. To bring in the Chinese New Year, we are offering our readers a 50% discount on 4 of our titles on China and Chinese Studies. Click here to read more.

We are always pleased to read reviews of our titles, and we are delighted to showcase another noteworthy review this month. To find out more about Mr Justice McCardie (1869-1933): Rebel, Reformer, and Rogue Judge, of which the Law Quarterly Review believe the subject “would have been proud”, please click here.

Our February discount campaigns, with a time-limited discount of up to 60%, include:

Book of the Month – this month’s must-read is Land Writings: Excursions in the Footprints of Edward Thomas by James Riding, which provides a personal and moving tale of encountering literature in landscape. It is “elegant, scrupulous and excitingly experimental” according Robert Macfarlane of the University of Cambridge, and we are offering a 60% discount on this title.
