

New and Featured Titles from Cambridge Scholars - May 2018

On the 22nd of May, join Cambridge Scholars Publishing in celebrating National Maritime Day, which commemorates the inaugural crossing of the Atlantic Ocean by a steam powered ship. On this day in 1819, the steamship Savannah made the journey from the American state of Georgia to England, and the voyage was declared a national holiday by the US Congress in 1933. Today National Maritime Day is marked by celebrations of the role played by maritime industries in the continuing prosperity and security of the country.

Rivers, seas, oceans, and the entire maritime world have been studied for generations, and we are proud to continue publishing the very best scholarly work analysing and exploring maritime culture, history, politics, and engineering. We are therefore offering readers a 50% discount on four of our best received titles in this area. To read more, please click here.

We are also delighted to be partnering with the British Society of Criminology this month. The Society has been in existence for over 50 years and has a wide-ranging membership based both in the United Kingdom and overseas. To find out more about the partnership and the BSC's prize draw, please click here.

Our May discount campaigns, with a time-limited discount of up to 60%, include:

Book of the Month – May's essential reading is The Medusa Gaze in Contemporary Women's Fiction: Petrifying, Maternal and Redemptive by Gillian M. E. Alban. The book has been described as "an empowering reflection on the complexities of woman's situation" by Glenys Livingstone, co-editor of Re-visioning Medusa: from Monster to Divine Wisdom. We are offering a 60% discount on this title this month; please click here to find out more.

The Editorial Advisory Board's 'Recommended Reads' – this month, Professor Clara Sarmiento's Recommended Read is Space, Gender, and the Gaze in Literature and Art, edited by Ágnes Zsófia Kovács and László B. Sári. The book probes how space and gaze are tied in with social constructions of gender and gender relations. We are offering a 50% discount on this book to all our readers: please click here to view Professor Sarmiento's choice.

Forthcoming Titles, New Releases and Best Sellers – every month, our editors carefully select nine of our new, forthcoming, and best-selling titles that are catching the eye, and reduce their prices by up to 50%. Please click on our homepage to view the selection.

Happy reading!
