

Pacific Meeting on the Psychology of Social Change, Santiago, Chile December 14-16, 2018

The meeting will bring together political and social psychologists from around the Pacific Rim and beyond to discuss themes including peace, protest, contact, immigration, inequality, globalization, diversity, indigenous rights, and reconciliation.

With the support of the International Society of Political Psychology (ISPP), Pontificia Universidad Católica de Chile, the Chilean Society of Psychological Science (SCP) and the Center for Social Conflict and Cohesion Studies (COES) the meeting will showcase psychological research in Latin America and will build research connections in the Pacific region.

The program will involve small group paper presentations (20 minutes plus 10 minutes for questions), poster sessions, and one or two public lectures/ debates on topical matters. Senior scholars will be encouraged to attend and provide feedback on a specified number of posters in their area of expertise to ensure that there is a positive developmental experience for PhD students.

We hope that the public lectures will be available in English with a Spanish translation and that this content can be made available in video or audio format.

Registration fees from senior scholars will be reinvested to fund travel bursaries for 5 international PhD students. We expect that most of these will be from Latin American countries other than Chile.

Registration fee: Senior Scholars. To be determined after funding sources are finalized but will be a maximum of US$250.

PhD Students. $0

For inquiries, including in relation to satellite activities and events around the meeting, please contact any member of the organizing committee.

If you wish to present a paper please send a title (less than 15 words) and an abstract (maximum of 250 words) to c.mcgart@westernsydney.edu.au before May 1, 2018.

PhD students (especially but not exclusively students in Latin America who are not resident in Santiago) who wish to register for a travel bursary should express interest to anna.wlodarczyk@ucn.cl before July 31, 2018

Caveat: This meeting has been made possible with significant financial support from ISPP. It is definitely open to persons who are not members of ISPP but it is our expectation that a majority of participants will be members of ISPP.
