Empowering Citizens in Illiberal Times: The Political Psychology of Oppression and Resistance

Welcome to the 42nd Annual Scientific Meeting of the International Society of Political Psychology and to the wonderful city of Lisbon, Portugal! The city and surrounding countryside have many charms, which I hope will catch your eye and make for an enjoyable visit. But first, plan on attending as many of the conference sessions as possible, as you join what is shaping up to be ISPP's largest meeting to date. This record-setting conference signals not just the attraction of Lisbon, but the excitement and growth in our field, which has much to offer in these days of worldwide change and uncertainty.

Our theme this year is Empowering Citizens in Illiberal Times: The Political Psychology of Oppression and Resistance, reflecting the events of the second decade of the 21st century which have led to challenges to liberal democratic order on a scale which few of us anticipated. The defining international structure of the post-WWII 20th century seems to be being swept away before our eyes as what seemed like an inexorable march toward liberal democracy (at least in the "west") has stalled. Political psychology has a lot to offer in these times and the academic program developed by Angie Bos and Shelley McKeown Jones reflects the diversity of the work we do and the questions we ask. Angie and Shelley were ably assisted by their section chairs, who worked through well over 1,000 individual and panel submissions as they built this conference.

My thanks to Angie and Shelley, along with Zoe Oxley , Christina Farhart , Dan Stevens , Martijn van Zomeren , Amanda Bittner , Gizem Arikan , Zac Greene , Mark Dechesne , Becky Choma , Huseyin Cakal , Michael Bang-Peterson , Tereza Capelos , and Reeshma Haji for the many hours they spent serving ISPP and all of us. I also offer my deepest appreciation to the many ISPP members who served on various committees throughout the year, including the Chairs of our various Awards Committees: Kevin Durrheim, Cindy Kam, Diana Mutz, Scott Clifford, and Julie Wronski. ISPP cannot function without extensive volunteer service on these committees and on the Governing Council.

The often unsung heroes of ISPP are our Central Office Staff, who make certain that things run smoothly year-round, and when inevitable challenges arise, resolve them quickly and effectively. I have been fortunate to work with Sev Bennett, Executive Director, and Heather Schlabach, Executive Administrator, during my year as president. They have made my job so much easier. Say hi to them at the registration tables!

In addition to the hundreds of panel sessions, roundtables, posters, and blitz's from which you can choose, four Plenary Sessions are scheduled this year. As our 2018 Sanford Award winner, Kevin Durrheim's talk is The Beginning and the End of Racism - and Something in Between, while Steve Reicher, 2018 Laswell Awardee, will examine Social Identity as Political Psychology. In addition, as part of our Gender and Political Psychology Conference within the Conference, Sara Mitchell will present her research on Navigating Gender Biases in Academia. Finally, I will speak on Academic Freedom under attack in my presidential address.

WELCOME LETTER From the President

An important innovation by our Program Chairs is the Gender and Political Psychology Conference within the Conference (CwC) that will run as part of this year's programs. Look for the special designation in the schedule, which includes dozens of panels, posters, and presentations. The CwC gives those interested a chance to focus intensely on this area of research over the four days of the meeting.

There are a number of other special program events and activities. Don't miss the poster sessions, although it may be hard to do so since they will be in the lobby areas as you walk through. Stop and talk with poster presenters; I guarantee you will learn a lot. The Early Career Committee has organized a number of panels and events, including the annual Mentoring Lunch. The ECC is one of the jewels of ISPP, working to create networking and professional development opportunities for students and early career faculty and researchers. All ISPP members are invited to the annual Business Meeting, to be held on Sunday, 14 July, during the lunch break in Coimbra B (please note that lunch is not provided). We will provide information on the financial state of ISPP and plans for future conferences that should be of interest. And please plan to join us for our various receptions and events, especially at the Award Ceremony and reception as we celebrate our 2019 award winners.

For several years now we have been watching events in Turkey (and elsewhere) with dismay. ISPP colleagues, and many others across all academic disciplines in Turkey, have been harassed, dismissed, and charged and convicted of major crimes for speaking out from their positions as scholars and citizens, in direct violation of the rights to free speech and Academic Freedom. Some of our members have been made virtual non-persons as the government has stripped them of their jobs, their access to social services, and their right to travel. The stories are heartbreaking, but in many cases are also inspiring as our colleagues find solidarity in their struggle. ISPP has been helping where we can. We have been formally expressing our condemnation of the government's actions (in Turkey and other countries where Academic Freedom has been particularly under attack). We have also been reaching out in support of our colleagues, including financially where we can. Thank you to all who have contributed:

funds are still needed and gratefully accepted at <https://ispp.eventsair.com/ispp-members/donmod/Site/Register>. I am so humbled by the work of so many to help, and especially grateful to ISPP Past-president Eva Green for her leadership of our Scholars Under Threat Committee.

As my year as ISPP President comes to a close, I want to thank the Governing Council and all ISPP members for this opportunity to serve. ISPP has been important to me since my graduate student days, and I feel privileged to have been able to lead this incredible Society. As I step back, President-elect Nick Valentino will take the reins following the conference. I wish him and all of our officers and members all the best in the coming year.

Again, welcome to Lisbon and ISPP. I trust you will have an enjoyable and illuminating conference!

WELCOME TO THE 42ND ANNUAL MEETING OF THE INTERNATIONAL SOCIETY OF POLITICAL PSYCHOLOGY!

Bem vindo a Lisboa! Welcome to Lisbon!

We are excited to welcome you to the largest annual meeting in the history of ISPP- the 42nd International Conference in Lisbon, Portugal. The huge response we have had to this meeting illustrates ISPP's growing popularity and place as a multidisciplinary and international forum for sharing research in political psychology.

Showcasing the very best of political psychology research, our program is truly diverse in research focus and methods, bringing together speakers from a wide range of countries, disciplines, and career stages—this is something we worked hard to achieve and are very proud of. Centered around the theme of "Empowering Citizens in Illiberal Times: The Political Psychology of Oppression and Resistance," our program recognizes society's challenging times but also encourages us to think about how political psychology can contribute to understanding empowerment and movements that counter various trends posing a threat to liberal democracy and academic freedom.

Being such a large event, we have a busy 4 days ahead of us! There are over 800 registered delegates participating in 121 panels, 19 blitz sessions, 5 roundtable discussions, over 5 plenary or workshop sessions, and 94 poster presentations. Professor David Redlask will give the ISPP Presidential Address on Friday at 5:40pm, and Professor Sara Mitchell will give a plenary address on Saturday at 5:40pm. ISPP award winners Professor Kevin Durrheim (Sanford Award) and Professor Stephen Reicher (Lasswell award) will give plenary addresses on Sunday at 4pm and Monday at 11:50am respectively. The plenaries will address the diverse themes of the conference; Mitchell's talk will address "Navigating Gender Biases in Academia," Durrheim will speak on "The Beginning and the End of Racism— and Something In-Between." The final plenary by Reicher will focus on "Group Psychology and the Life (and Death) of Democracy"

In addition, the Early Career Committee are hosting a number of events targeted at supporting the academic and social needs of the new generation of political psychologists. The includes a roundtable session focusing on "From Peer Review to Publicity: Best Practices for Building a Scholarly Reputation" on Saturday at 11:50am; another on "The Dissertation is Done, Now What? Publishing Post-Ph.D" on Sunday at 11:50am; and a "Developing a Research Elevator Pitch" Workshop on Sunday at 8:30am, as well as a mentoring lunch on Friday at 12:50pm and Early Career Scholars reception on Saturday at 6:40pm.

WELCOME LETTER

From Lisbon Program Chairs

Running alongside the usual ISPP format, we have introduced a number of exciting changes to the program this year. First, we focused on creating a program that truly represents the diversity of political psychology research and the political psychology community in terms of topic, methods, geography, gender, and career stage. To facilitate discussions regarding gender diversity and relations, we created a Conference within the Conference (CWC) on gender and political psychology. The CWC brings together panels focused on gender over multiple days in the same room. Second, in place of invited symposia, we showcase the excellent submissions we received from our ISPP community through 'featured panels' that represent ISPP and our conference theme. Third, we introduced a brand-new "blitz" presentation type. The shorter format allows more scholars attending the meeting to give an oral presentation of their work while offering a compelling format for presenters and audience members alike.

Of course, all of our work on the program could not have happened without the support of a number of colleagues. It was a pleasure to work alongside an excellent team of Section Chairs for Lisbon who reviewed and organized over 1200 conference submissions. Thank you so much to Zoe Oxley, Christina Farhart, Mirya Holman, Amanda Bittner, Dan Stevens, Gizem Arikan, Zac Greene, Mark Dechesne, Becky Choma, Huseyin Cakal, Michael Bang-Peterson, Tereza Capelos, Reeshma Haji, and Martijn van Zomeren. It was also a pleasure to be supported by our team of local organizers, led by Rui Costa Lopes, who worked hard to develop a local feel to our program providing important contributions to the academic side of our program as well as suggesting places for the ISPP community to eat and visit. We are deeply grateful for your service.

We are also indebted to the Central Office team for their support and tireless work. Sev Bennett, Executive Director, worked tirelessly behind the scenes and showed great patience with our many requests. Heather Schlabach, Executive Administrator, dedicated a huge amount of time in supporting us with the day-to-day organization of the program. We will miss our daily email exchanges! Special mention also goes to ISPP President Dave Redlawsk who has been incredibly supportive and actively involved throughout the entire process by providing feedback and leadership in many difficult decisions related to constructing the program.

On behalf of presenters, audiences, ISPP and the wider discipline of political psychology: Thanks to all of you—together we have developed what promises to be one of the most memorable ISPP's in history.

We hope that you will join us in sharing your insights and conference revelations via social interaction and social media, during and after the conference. The Twitter feed for this year's conference is #ISPP2019, and

From Early Career Committee Chair

EARLY CAREER COMMITTEE WELCOME 2019

Dear Colleagues:

On behalf of the Early Career Committee (ECC), I want to give you a warm welcome to Lisbon. We are very excited to have you all here in our 42nd annual meeting of the International Society of Political Psychology!

Our team has been working the entire year on some modifications for the activities we traditionally carry out during our Annual Meeting. First, our Mentoring Luncheon Coordinators (Karolina Urbanska and Chadley Stern) recruited a renovated team of 25 mentors from diverse (personal and professional) backgrounds. Thus, on Friday 12th July (in Eduardo VII) over lunch those early career scholars confirmed for this activity will have the opportunity to discuss their research, career-relevant matters, and a variety of career dynamics in their respective areas with their chosen mentors.

Second, our Professional Development Coordinators (Amanda Friesen and Angel Saavedra) organized two roundtable sessions. While one will be focused on tips and information on how to build a scholarly reputation (Saturday 13th July at 11:50 AM in Sesimbra), a second roundtable will address a hot topic for early careers scholars, publication (Sunday 14th July at 11:50 AM in Nazare). In particular, this last session will be led by a mixed panel of academics and publishers who are going to provide useful guidelines that may help early careers scholars in the process of publishing their dissertations.

Another activity prepared by Amanda and Angel is our traditional "Elevator Pitch Workshop." Those who attend this event on Sunday 14th July from 8:30 AM to 10:00 AM (in Sesimbra) will have the opportunity to receive feedback from a team formed by three mid-career scholars on how to present a research project in a brief, enjoyable, and memorable way. If we are talking about traditional activities, then, we cannot forget our ECC Social Hour (on Saturday 13th July at 6:40 PM in Eduardo VII). This year, as every year, we will have the opportunity to socialize and enjoy a relaxing hour along with our colleagues from around the world. Also, you will have the opportunity to meet some of the ECC officers and know a little bit more about what we do throughout the entire year.

Moreover, thanks to the continuous support of the ISPP Governing Council, this year we were able to allocate 15 Travel Grant Awards to the following early career scholars: Kiril Zhirkov (University of Michigan); Mai Albzour (University of Lausanne); Irina Soboleva (Columbia University); Maneesh Arora (University of California, Irvine); Yeshim Iqbal (New York University); Katelin Siemens Neufeld (University of Manitoba); John Wagner (University of New Mexico); Lucia Hargasova (Slovak Academy of Sciences); Joaquin Bahamondes (University of Auckland); Yanshu Huang (University of Auckland); Nicole Satherley (University of Auckland); Isabel Williams (University of Arizona); Micaela Varela (Pontificia Universidad Catolica de Chile); Andrea Correa Chica (University of Santiago de Compostela); Alexander Wuttke (University of Mannheim).

During the annual meeting, the ECC will continue to keep you apprised of events, as well as interesting panels and roundtables using the ISPP's social media accounts. Like us on the ISPP Facebook page (facebook.com/PolPsyISPP), follow us on Twitter (@PolPsyISPP), or connect with us on LinkedIn (<https://www.linkedin.com/in/intlsocpolpsych/>) to stay up-to-date regarding the upcoming call for papers and funding opportunities. In addition, you can also visit our Medium account (@PolPsyISPP) where our Web Resources Coordinators (Lucas Czarnecki and Sumedh Rao) have published a set of articles written by early career scholars. As always, we appreciate any comments, advice or feedback on how we can improve, you can reach us at ecc@ispp.org.

Finally, I would like to thank Thia Shagherian-Dickey for her continuous support as Chair-Elect; Sandra Obradovic and Bradley Mankoff for keeping us informed through our ECC newsletter and the rest of 2018-2019 Early Career Committee members for all the formidable work and dedication. Personally, it was a terrific honour work along with all of them on getting a more efficient and inclusive committee.

I hope you have a wonderful time in Lisbon!

FEATURED PANELS

Featured Panels

This year, we introduced 'Featured panels' into the program to showcase the excellent submissions we received from our ISPP community. Featured panels are panels that have been selected by the Program Chairs because of their diversity and representation of the conference theme and political psychology more broadly.

The Featured Panels below include talks from local and international scholars, across a range of career stages and disciplines, addressing issues including: collective action, de-politicising discourses, belongingness motives, populism, extremism, empowerment, integration, prejudice reduction, Islamophobia, racism, and polarization.

Intergenerational transmission of collective action participation

Friday July 12, 10:10-11:40, Coimbra A

Presenting new (neo-liberal) laws to the public sphere: hiding choice and alternative through de-politicized discourses

Friday July 12, 14:20-15:50, Evora

Acting in times of crisis and conflict: the role of belongingness motives

Friday July 12, 16:00-17:30, Cascais

The Many Paths to Populism and Extremism

Saturday July 13, 08:30-10:00, Coimbra B

How informal gatherings create new empowered identities in disadvantaged and marginalized groups

Saturday July 13, 14:20-15:50, Obidos B

Challenges of EU Integration: Understanding Brexit and Beyond

Saturday July 13, 16:00-17:30, Obidos B

Populism, voters, and parties

Sunday July 14, 08:30-10:00, Coimbra A

Islamophobia: Conceptualisations, Discourse, and Pathways to Reduction

Sunday July 14, 14:20-15:50, Obidos B

CONFERENCE WITHIN THE CONFERENCE (CWC)

New Developments in Contact theory

Sunday July 14, 10:10-11:40, Coimbra B

Prejudice and racism discourse in illiberal times

Monday July 15, 08:30-10:00, Cascais

Polarization's Causes and Consequences

Monday July 15, 10:10-11:40, Coimbra A

Conference within the Conference (CWC) on Gender in Political Psychology

This CWC features a focused set of research panels related to gender and political psychology that will take place in the same room over multiple days of the conference. In this format, participants interested in gender and political psychology will be able to more deeply engage with the topics – and in conversations and networking with each other – over the course of the conference.

Gender and Evaluations of Political Leaders

Friday July 12, 16:00 - 17:30, Evora

The effects of heteronormativity on heterosexual, non-heterosexual, and non-cis-gendered people

Saturday July 13, 8:30 - 10:00, Evora

Gender Gaps and Gendered Political Socialization

Saturday July 13, 10:10 - 11:40, Evora

Political Effects of Sexism

Saturday July 13, 14:20 - 15:50, Evora

Gender in U.S. Electoral Politics

JOIN US FOR THE POSTER SESSIONS, Friday, July 12, Sunday, July 14, and Monday, July 15

Location: Foyers on BOTH Floor 0 and Floor 2

Please join us at the two poster sessions! We have a great lineup of posters addressing topics that span the conference sections. The scheduled “meet-the-author” sessions are Friday (11:50 am 12:50 pm), Sunday (6:00 pm – 7:00 pm, in conjunction with the Awards Reception), and Monday (12:50 pm – 1:45 pm). Poster authors must put up their poster each day and will need to remove them immediately following their scheduled session. The posters are numbered as they are in the program; corresponding numbers on the posterboards will indicate where each poster should be placed. Poster sessions are a terrific venue for having one-on-one conversations with scholars about their work. We hope to see you there!

New in 2019: Early Career Scholars Poster Awards

ISPP is excited to award its inaugural poster awards this year. Graduate students and PhDs who completed their degree within the past eight years were invited to self-nominate their posters to be judged in a first round at the 2019 Annual Meeting; finalists will be asked to submit their poster electronically for a final round of judging. Award winners will receive the award at the 2020 Annual Meeting Awards Ceremony.

PLENARY SESSIONS

Friday, July 12, 8:00 – 8:20 AM, Coimbra B

Welcome Session

David P. Redlawsk (University of Delaware, USA)

ISPP President, David P. Redlawsk, will offer some initial welcome remarks, announcements, and what to expect during the conference.

Friday July 12, 5:40 - 6:40 PM, Coimbra A&B

Empowering Citizens in Illiberal Times: The Political Psychology of Oppression and Resistance

David P. Redlawsk (University of Delaware, USA)

Academic Freedom is under attack worldwide. Yet, it is a cornerstone of the academy, empowering scholars to go where the evidence leads, to make arguments that may challenge the powers-that-be, and to do so without fear of political interference. Neither long-established democracies nor places where the idea of independent scholarship is still new are being spared in these attacks. ISPP has been particularly concerned about the impact of authoritarian attacks on scholars in Turkey, where we have had a growing membership. This plenary will present new research on scholars under threat in Turkey and describe how ISPP is responding, while highlighting the impact on ISPP members and others whose careers have been all but destroyed.

Saturday July 13, 5:40 - 6:40 PM, Coimbra A&B

Navigating Gender Biases in Academia

Sara Mitchell (University of Iowa, USA)

Accumulated empirical evidence identifies discernible gender gaps across many dimensions of professional academic careers including academic service, and citations. In addition to summarizing patterns of gender bias in the social science fields, this presentation discusses strategies for addressing these biases.

Sunday July 14, 4:00 - 5:00 PM, Coimbra A&B

The Beginning and the End of Racism - and Something in Between

Kevin Durrheim (University Of Kwazulu-natal – South Africa)

In this presentation I will tell a story about the concept of racism - how it was born, the meandering of its development inside and outside the social sciences - and conclude by speculating about its end. The concept of racism arose and gained currency in debates about Nazism in Europe. It then became firmly integrated into authoritative social science discourse, where its association with irrationality was cemented. The concept migrated into everyday discourse where it was powerfully deployed in critique, aided in no small measure by the authoritative clout lent it by the social science endeavor. In recent years, this authority has been undermined both by rigorously social constructionist treatment of racism as a strategic "social accomplishment" or "identity performance" and by conceptual inflation as privileged groups - the historical perpetrators of racism - claim to be its victims. Does this signal the end of racism - I ask in conclusion - or will it find a way of rising above the cacophony of racism accusation and denial?

Monday July 15, 11:50 AM - 12:50 PM, Coimbra B

Social Identity as Political Psychology

Stephen Reicher (University of St. Andrews, Scotland)

In this talk, I shall argue that the social identity approach in social psychology constitutes a theory of social power. It is through the creation of a sense of shared social identity in a group that people cohere and come to constitute a source of social power; it is through defining the content of identity (and hence the goals of the group) that this power is articulated in society. Insofar as it addresses these twin questions, then the social identity approach provides a psychological basis to the analysis of politics. I shall then discuss the processes through which psychological groups are formed, paying particular attention to the key role of leaders as 'entrepreneurs of identity'. I shall also examine how different forms of politics (specifically degrees of democracy and autocracy) depend on the relationship between leaders and followers in defining the group identity. Finally, I shall examine the role of leadership and identity definition in propagating (and contesting) the toxic politics of intergroup hatred.

Roberta Sigel Early Career Scholar Paper Award 2019

The Sigel Award is given to early career scholar authors of the best papers presented at annual scientific meetings in a symposium, paper panel, or poster session.

ISPP first announced this award at its Vancouver meeting in 1996. Professor Sigel, whom the award honors, was a distinguished professor of political science at Rutgers University. She was the author and editor of seven books and many articles and book chapters, mostly in the areas of political socialization and democratic citizenship. She had many leadership roles in the American Political Science Association and has served as program chair, Vice-President and President of ISPP.

All ISPP early career scholars who are current dues paid members of ISPP and had their paper accepted for the 2019 Annual Meeting are eligible to be considered for the award to be presented during the 2020 meeting. Early career scholars are students (graduate or undergraduate) and faculty who received their Ph.D. within the last eight years. Each award carries a cash prize of $250.

There are two awards with slightly different criteria to accommodate the authorship and publication practices in the various disciplines represented in ISPP:

- The first award is given to the best paper written by early career scholars only. In the case of multiple authors, all co-authors must be early career scholars.
- The second award is conferred to the best paper with an early career scholar first author. This award allows for a senior scholar co-author.

Please nominate (self-nominations are encouraged) eligible papers only (note all submissions as papers; poster format submissions are not acceptable) and submit them to the email below by January 15, 2020. Papers previously submitted to the Sigel Award are not eligible. All submissions will be read by the award committee, consisting of members of the Early Career Committee as well as senior scholars. Two papers will be selected strictly according to scientific excellence and their contribution to research in political psychology.

BEST DISSERTATION

Announcement 2019

Best Dissertation Award Announcement 2019

The International Society of Political Psychology is pleased to announce a call for nominations for the Best Dissertation Award, given for the first time at the 2008 Annual Meeting in Paris.

All Ph.D. dissertations within the field of political psychology are eligible for consideration, regardless of home discipline. Dissertations should represent an independent piece of research that is the sole work of the author and gains the highest degree at the author's university.

Nominations are due by January 15, 2020, for dissertations completed and successfully defended between Jan. 1, 2019, and Dec. 31, 2019. Nominees must be current ISPP members. Nominations should be submitted electronically and must include a one-page abstract (300 word), a 10-page (3,000 word) summary of the dissertation, and a letter of recommendation from the thesis adviser or committee member, all in English.

For more information, see <http://www.ispp.org/awards/best-dissertation>

Send nominations to the 2020 Award Committee Chair:

Eric Groenendyk

University of Memphis

grnendyk@memphis.edu

The award committee will request a copy of the full dissertation for those selected to participate in the second round evaluation. If the dissertation is written in a language other than English, the full dissertation may be submitted in the original language for the second round evaluation, and at least one qualified reader fluent in that language will be included as a committee member for the second round evaluation.

ISPP 2020: Polarization, Misinformation, and Entrenched Group Conflict: Harnessing Political Psychology to Find Solutions to Problems New and Old

Where: Maritim Hotel, Berlin, Germany

When: July 14-17, 2020

President: Nicholas A. Valentino (University of Michigan)

Conference Program Co-Chairs: Thomas Craemer (University of Connecticut), Lilliana Mason (University of Maryland)

Submission Deadline: December 1, 2019

The last two decades have seen great technological and economic transformations worldwide. It has become easier to communicate with each other and with strangers, in our families and communities, and across borders. Falling barriers to trade have led to a dramatic increase in the movement of products and labor, helping to lift vast numbers of people out of poverty in developing nations.

But with these exciting transformations also came great challenges and conflict. The rise of populist and anti-immigrant parties in many democracies in the west seem to move in lock step with polarization and political gridlock. These trends now threaten economic growth around the world. The very communication technologies that brought so many benefits- increasing social connection, the mobilization of social movements, and increased access to news and information from around the world- also occasioned a proliferation of misinformation, fake news, and propaganda so subtle it is often impossible to identify and control. The institutions of democracy itself- election systems and access to the ballot- are increasingly challenged.

Using new technologies, the power of bad actors to inflame racial and ethnic tensions and even to cause lethal violence at the individual and state level seems to be on the rise. Conspiratorial thinking, anti-scientific sentiment, ethnic and racial animus, and extremist ideologies all seem to find it easier to operate in such an open political and economic environment.

And as if all that weren't enough, these threats all come at time when we seem to like each other less and less, with partisan affective polarization on the rise in country after country. How can we find a path toward sound and majoritarian policy making in such a moment? The stakes could not be higher, as scientists discover for example that our inaction even for the next few decades on issues of climate change could have consequences that last centuries.

What are the causes and consequences of these trends? Is political compromise no longer possible in an era of extreme polarization, deliberate misinformation, and entrenched conflict within and across borders? We are especially interested in papers that address these questions.

Political Psychologists seem uniquely qualified to understand, explain, and even to help address how we got here and where we might go next. Our great strength is our diversity- in terms of our backgrounds, our areas of expertise, our experiences, and our abilities. We study the role of psychology at the level of the individual, the group, the institution, and state. We study context and culture, and the ways those broad social forces interact with individual psychological processes to affect behavior and political decision-making. It is via this intellectual inclusivity, our dedication to learning from each other across great distances and differences, that makes ISPP such a special organization.

We invite you to participate in the 2020 ISPP Annual Scientific Meeting in Berlin, Germany. The ISPP Annual Meeting brings together scholars across disciplines and epistemologies using a wide range of theoretical and methodological approaches. Our overarching goal Society is engage with new research produced by scholars in fields across the social sciences, including psychology, political science, sociology, ethnic studies, anthropology, history, economics, media and communication studies, and many others.

Proposals for traditional panel papers are welcome, as are proposals for symposia, roundtables, blitz presentations and posters on any topic in political psychology, including those relevant to any aspect of the theme addressed above.

Join the ISPP Mentoring Program!

The ISPP Mentoring Program pairs junior faculty members with more senior colleagues who can provide advice and support during the early years of the mentee's career.

SENIOR SCHOLARS—BECOME A MENTOR

You may ask to mentor a junior scholar for a brief period to provide mentorship on a specific issue or for a longer time –during the course of a semester or throughout the academic year.

If you're interested in participating, please send an email to ISPPMentoringProg@ispp.org.

JUNIOR FACULTY MEMBERS —FIND A MENTOR

Ideally, mentees would be paired in at the beginning of their first year as faculty members, but the program will also match assistant professors who have been at their institutions for longer periods.

If you're interested in participating, please send an email to ISPPMentoringProg@ispp.org.

HELP SUPPORT SCHOLARS UNDER THREAT

Academic freedom is under attack in several countries, particularly in Turkey and Hungary. ISPP has been reaching out in support of our colleagues, including financially where we can. Thank you to all who have contributed, but funds are still needed and gratefully accepted.

Go to <https://ispp.eventsair.com/ispp-members/donmod/Site/Register> to donate, or use the “Scholars Under Threat” button in the conference app.

Applications for funds are reviewed by ISPP’s Scholars Under Threat Committee.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

Additional Conference Information

Registration

Participants can pick up their conference materials beginning at 7:00 AM on July 12 at the Registration tables in the Foyer areas on BOTH Levels 0 and 2. Registration will be open until 6:00 PM and then will reopen at 7:30 AM on July 13, and at 8:00AM on July 14 (until 5:30PM and 4:30 PM, respectively).

Wi-Fi Access

All meeting rooms and foyers have Wi-Fi access. Please select "IHGConnect" from the list of available wireless networks. Select "Use the access code" and insert the code ispp. Accept the Terms & Conditions.

Use of any other available Wi-Fi networks is at your own risk.

Poster Sessions

The poster boards and tacks will be available starting at 10:00am on July 12 for presenters to post their materials for the July 12 poster session. The boards and tacks for the poster session on July 14 will be available immediately following the lunch break. The boards and tacks for the poster session on July 15 will be available starting at 8:15am. Tacks/pins will be available at the registration tables on each of the two levels. Please check the number of your poster in the sessions listing for each day; the boards will be numbered the same and you should place your materials on the board corresponding to your number in the program. Please note that materials need to be removed immediately following each poster session or they will be thrown away. ISPP is not responsible for safeguarding materials left behind after the end of the poster sessions.

Tourist Information

ISPP will have several brochures for Lisbon and the surrounding areas available at the Registration tables. These brochures are free for you to take and provide some information on places of interest and tours of Lisbon and the nearby cities/towns. Any tours are separate from the conference and must be arranged for and purchased separately. You can also find information on Lisbon in our conference app, including a list of restaurants and bars closest to the conference hotel.

Questions?

ISPP staff and volunteers can be found at the Registration tables and throughout the lobby and meeting room areas. They can be identified by red "STAFF" ribbons on their name badges and volunteers will have handheld signs with the ISPP logo. Please come see us with any inquiries.
