

New and Featured Titles from Cambridge Scholars – January 2019

On the 24th of January, join Cambridge Scholars Publishing in marking the inaugural International Day of Education. On the 3rd of December 2018, the United Nations adopted a resolution to create this unique day, which acknowledges the importance of working to ensure inclusive and equitable quality education at all levels – early childhood, primary, secondary, tertiary and distance education, including technical and vocational training – so that all people may have access to lifelong learning opportunities.

To celebrate the first of many International Days of Education, we are offering our readers a 50% discount on four of our best-selling titles in Education. Please click here to see more.

Our January discount campaigns, with a time-limited discount of up to 60%, include:

Book of the Month – The first must read of 2019 is The Bible in Music by Robert Letellier. A grand survey of the history of the relationship between the Bible and numerous kinds of music, it was described by the BBC Music Magazine as an “impressively informative” book about “music inspired by the Bible.” Please click here to find out more, and to receive a 60% discount on the book.

The Editorial Advisory Board’s ‘Recommended Reads’ – This month, Dr Spiros Paramithiotis has chosen his Recommended Read: Dying to Eat: Health, Heresy and Hysteria by Professor Michael Trevan. A majestic tour through food science and our relationship with what we eat, we are offering a 50% discount on Spiros’ choice. Please click here to read more.

Featured Review – Read two new reviews of one of our best Philosophy titles from 2018 by clicking here.

Happy reading!
