

Questionnaire about social psychologists around the world

Dear colleague,

We would like to invite you to participate in our study about the situation of social psychology around the world. This survey requests information about research topics, research methods, funding and publication practices in your country, with the aim of assessing aspirations and challenges in social psychological research in different countries. We are especially interested in countries and research topics that are less visible in mainstream, international social psychology.

We would be very grateful if you could spend 20 minutes filling out the questionnaire, and help us disseminate the questionnaire link among colleagues working in your country or elsewhere. The questionnaire is anonymous. We do not collect any personal information about participants. Data will only be used for research purposes.

The research is conducted by Arin Ayanian (Bielefeld University, Germany), Anna Kende (Eötvös Loránd University, Budapest, Hungary), Barbara Lasticova (Slovak Academy of Sciences, Slovakia), Rim Saab (American University of Beirut, Lebanon), and Fouad Bou Zeineddine (Independent researcher, Beirut, Lebanon).

If you have any questions or would like to receive further information about our project, please do not hesitate to contact us at underrepresented.socpsychology@gmail.com.

The questionnaire can be accessed here:
